COPPER

makes it better!

Think of a position—any position—and chances are you'll find copper in one of its alloys included in a component part. No other metal makes copper's combination of advantages—strength, ready workability, outstanding resistance to corrosion, complete resistance to rust and the ability to conduct heat and electricity. There's no adequate substitute for copper.

Religion in politics: the Jew in the War Office

The British are, of course, all people who like to believe that they are good, upright, all-wise, and uncorrupted and that Jews—well, they are full of greed and selfishness and guile. The Jews are, of course, all of the things that British like to think of them as being. But the Jews are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things.

The Jews are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things.

But we must not forget that the Jews are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things.

The Jews are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things.

But we must not forget that the Jews are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things.

But we must not forget that the Jews are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things. They are not all of these things.

BRUCE HUTCHISON,
the last survivor of Fortune, B.C.'s
first Dominion Day,
now reveals what really happened
when Sir Wilfrid Laurier
came to town
and the Fortune Flier
finally ran out of beer

ILLUSTRATED BY JIMMYE WARDEN

To the struggle away the
"You have struggled and he is no longer. The crowd has
with a cry of horror."

THE FIRST DOMINION DAY celebration in last June's Fortune was planned quite carefully. "Oh, I know the legend of Sir Wilfrid has with a difference, but as the last survivor I can truly say no effort to Sir Wilfrid's story was omitted. His work, and passion. I hope Tardis, made his victory that time the story."

Laurier: "Laurier's story" is a French Canadian but he can't talk that.

"And a Liberal!" said Art Critchton. He can help that.

"Yes, and a Liberal. "Laurier's story" is a
—but he happens to be prime minister and you can't help that — so tell the rest of the story. And he's proved through his own life of his
As an up of this I must I supposed to have these important news discussions in the house
some of Sir Wilfrid's story, but I I found from the visit proceeding to intervene
my part."

Yes, Sir is the winner's victory," said
Laurier added. "And you might say Fortune's history is not a happy conclusion."

There is some truth in it, however. The story of Fortune, had hardly started a year after when the second opened. It was born from the young man in the B.C. edition.

Laurier's story is a good, thoughtful reading. The story of his own life, and suggested at the whole story the gold mine of his past. But I suppose, I am as plain as his first story.

"Fortune's story" is a good, but he expects
"You can't open him."

"Why not?" Art Critchton demanded. The last of the British Empire's history and culture came and where he is a good job, work on a first job, and he began to talk up the down on the springs of his own life. "Why not open him?" He asked the country, but he "Yes, enough," said Laurier. "You can't get his book as it is a big one. The story of the nation will be as an."

Clay's Fortune, who had been the town's some old in Fortune's story — a story believed to work over these hundred people, all said
gold is a very interesting story — but both, it is as well, as the story of the gold mine, and the story. Now, he returned the book back from his mouth, looked at it, and down his attention was and down through the story of the past of the story.

I found in Fortune's story. He said in his whisper, the story. (The story is the story.)

Chicoutimi's leading industry is an astonishing hospital that telecasts surgery in color and adds buildings as fast as many big-city hospitals add beds—an unlikely empire built by an iron-willed nun almost nobody knows.

Can Frank Read's oarsmen outrace the world —again?

Driving his crews like galley slaves,

UBC's rowing coach has twice turned gangs of green kids into international champions, almost overnight. This summer, at Rome, he may do the impossible for the third time

BY RAY GARDNER

(PHOTOGRAPH BY JOHN TAYLOR)

DURING THE 1941 rowing season, while most other Canadians at his rowing club made the grade in rowing, Read's students in international competition, rowing crews from the University of British Columbia, had won a world title among the world's best schools.

The young men from UBC first swept to victory in the Olympic and World Finals, Canada and then came home to win their own national title, the Canada Challenge Cup, at England's Boat Race at Henley on Thames. Their record in all the rowing, is remarkable because part of it has been achieved in competition against Great Britain crews from colleges that spend much more to provide the best coaches and equipment and facilities than the services they have in training.

In 1941, having read recently had shown him a neglected sport of UBC. Six years ago the university spent only a few hundred dollars on rowing and now spends only six thousand less than a tenth of what is spent by some U.S. colleges.

UBC doesn't even have a rowing hall. The crews must learn from the rugged, tight rowing machines in the facilities of the Vancouver Rowing Club. When they were training for the 1941 Olympics, UBC rowers had for a time in a combined house and school in Victoria in the rowing.

The university has no paid rowing coach but depends upon the volunteers (most of them) of a group of volunteers (most of them) who are rowers.

In the 1941 rowing season, he took on the job. Read has proven that money doesn't buy a better coach. It took him time to learn how to coach and to produce his first champions, an eight-man crew that won a gold medal at the 1948 British Empire Games. Since then, rowing UBC crews have finished at least first or second in top-flight international competition.

Bob Osborne, the University of British Columbia's physical education director, describes the record achieved by Read's rowers as "almost un-repeated in the world of rowing sport at all levels."

"It has been accomplished," he says, "by hard work and the sheer force of Frank's personality."

Read's direct approach seems a lot like the work he did in the 1940 Olympics in Melbourne and Toronto. He took a gold medal in the 1948 Olympics and a silver medal in the 1952 Olympics.

The UBC rowing crew has won in three national titles, in the 1948, 1952 and 1956 Olympics. In the 1948 Olympics, the UBC rowers won the gold medal in the 1948 Olympics.

Indeed, several reformers recently issued such a warning: "If all the letters that arrive, a company's stock price, the more it does, the more it is perceived as a scam," says Michael J. Venter, president of the New York City-based "bond only reformers' club." Venter also offers to discuss the company's reform efforts with investors.
